

Jorge Frascara is Professor Emeritus of Art and Design at the University of Alberta, Canada. He is a Fellow of the Society of Graphic Designers of Canada, and a member of the Editorial Boards of the Information Design Journal and Design Issues. He has held leading positions at the University of Alberta, Icograda, the ISO, the Society of Graphic Designers of Canada, the Graphic Design Education Association and the Canadian Standards Council. He has co-organized professional conferences in North America, Africa, Europe and Latin America, as well as design education projects. He has been advisor and reviewer of several design education programs and has lectured and made presentations in more than twenty-five countries. He is the author of Communication Design (2005); and User-Centred Graphic Design (1997); and the editor of Designing Effective Communications (2006); of Design and the Social Sciences (2002); of Graphic Design, World Views (1990); and of the ISO Technical Report 7239, Design and Application of Public Information Symbols (1984). He has also published three books in Spanish and more than 50 articles internationally. He has worked as a consultant for different departments of the Government of Canada, for the Mission Possible Coalition (traffic safety), for the Alberta Drug Utilization Program, and for the leading Canadian telecommunications company. He now lives in Padova, Italy, and contributes to the doctorate in Design Sciences and to the Master in Medical Design of the University Iuav of Venice.
